Surgery & Injury Recovery

Planning for Surgery? Suffering from Injury?

Did you know that nutrition is critical for injury and surgery recovery?

From minor sports injuries to major reconstructive surgery, physicians agree!

Yet most people are regularly deficient in key nutrients including those known to improve recovery!

Per the CDC and NHANES, nearly 80% have insufficient nutrient intake, of this 10% are clinically malnourished!

"50% of Americans are deficient in Vitamins A, C, and Magnesium."
- USDA

Studies show at least 40% of patients are malnourished at time of hospital arrival.

A strong recovery starts with you!

Nutrient insufficiency worsens during injury and surgery as your body rapidly depletes available nutrients. Ultimately this can:

Precipitate
nutrient deficiency

Compromise & delay
wound healing

Increase
pain & fatigue

Increase infections

Result in complications

These complications are often costly, common, but preventable!

Surgical patients will experience a complication

Surgical patients experience a complication after discharge

Discharged patients will be readmitted within 30 days

- JAMA Surgery Published Research
- Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services

Healthcare is already expensive and unpredictable. Complications lead to additional pain and cost.

Don't become a statistic.
